Good morning all,

On Tuesday, January 24th, we will have an inagural Art Walk Tour specifically designed for cruise passengers. While we are still trying to break through the cruise line barrier (they have not confirmed that they will communicate the tour to their guests) I think the best way to do that is to just move forward. We plan on using the trolley itself to market the tour. If anyone is interested in coming along to test it out, please let me know.
